

Canada is a large country with different landscapes and climates. Across the country many different people, from farmers to captains of ships need information about their environment to do their job well.