

In the prairies, farmers need to know where the best places in the soil are to plant their seeds for their limited growing season. RADARSAT-2 gives them information on where to plant and then helps monitor how healthy their crops are as they grow.